Hello I'm Heather, currently a student at GCU and the owner of Quilted Hearts Photography for over 10 years. I'm passionate about family life, and finding things to be grateful for, there are so many. My devotion to my faith in Jesus is dear to my heart, as well as taking every opportunity that's presented to give back in this world. My desire is to use my creative skills as a photographer, writer, and illustrator to write and illustrate children's books. Stories that inspire and motivate children to know and believe their true value and to use that value to contribute to a better world for all.

Choose an animal or person. Find examples of the subject in various perspectives and poses include a foreground and background. Create 24 thumbnails of the subject. Recreate the subject and include a foreground and background. I chose a hummingbird on a branch with the blues and greens predominantly displayed. Objective to demonstrate the use of tools in Adobe Illustrator for vector art while managing and organizing design in layers.

Impossible Composite

We were asked to create a scene in Photo Shop that would be considered impossible in reality. Clippings of chosen images were composited on a background using three or more layers. The objective was to create unique images using masks, filters, and channels and attain an understanding of how pixel-based images can be recreated in by using these tools. Thumbnail sketches were completed to prepare for this design work.
